Building a New Type of Business

Is your business something that is just going to unfold and happen, or are you ready to turn it into a progression journey and a project, where you become the main creator in all that you want to unfold?

In this e-book I want to explain what my HAL approach to business is about and why I think you should embark on that approach with me.

Through my carrier and educations, and my work over the last 15 years as a Personal Life Coach and Psychotherapist, having done small business coaching and consulting work for managers in larger businesses etc. I see myself equipped to suggest a new approach to business that will take our world into a whole new arena of how we perceive money, the ways to earn money and why we do business.

The first step is to acknowledge that a well driven business does not happen on its own. It is not a fluke of accidents that enables a business to thrive. You make your business a success. You. Nobody else.

And to be able to create a successful business, for yourself and the ones around you, you need progressive ways of perceiving others, society, your carrier and yourself, as a person wanting to take control of your business, develop it into a good one, where you – at the end of the day - can say: “Yeah, I have done good today. And I am proud of what I have achieved, done and given to others.”

That is our goal and to get to that moment of self-respect, you need new tools to do so. And this is where the HAL Business approach can come into use as well as my Progression and Psychology Classes & Courses and whatever I will come up with over the years, making my own life worthwhile, so I can say the exact same thing.

The Creational Work

Work is not just work and business is not just about earning money.

As we progress and develop the knowledge of how to administer energy and our inner human, as well as our outer human, i.e. who we are, in this reality in new ways we want to express this into projects or new ways of doing business. At least that is what has come up for me.

The old ways are based upon limited ways of perceiving others as well as our reality. Its not about producing and indoctrinating other humans to buy what we produce, but to create things, services and teachings that will make a difference in terms of lifting humanity into a higher realm of knowledge, understanding of what this reality is about as part of a larger system and that we are part of that system.

Our human world is a collective we impact by our choices, the work we do, the way we perceive work and the way we utilize money and products. All these things are expressions of planetary resources and we are responsible for our world and how it develops into either an advanced human system or a totally failure, where the natural protection mechanisms of our planet will be initiated to reset it, and from that restore it back to its original composition and function.

Our creational work, projects and businesses have to take into consideration the responsibility for our reality as a whole, the energies of it, the other dimensions and the dimension, we currently express ourselves into. Much have to change, and much have to be relearned as in how to actually work with our reality and how to accommodate the energetic features, which will unfold the flows and ebbs of the highest good of the many and not just for the individual.

Trusting in Flow is the First Step

(Article from the HAL Club February)

That is the first statement.

I will be what I need to be, when I need it.

That is the second statement.

Reality will always provide what is needed, when it is needed.

That is the third statement.

Circumstances will always change so that the what is needed can unfold.

That is the fourth statement.

I will always get what I need, when I need it, in the forms I need it.

That is the concluding statement.

To begin creating flow in life, and in your inner and outer human appearances, you have to let go of all that you think and believe to be correct. Let us make it simple; nothing you have learned about reality, yourself and others are correct. That is the simple version. So, clean slate. Tabula rasa as it is said in Latin.

Then we can begin anew solving the equation of life.

In all sciences of reality there is flow. There has to be flow. Where there is no flow, there is death and stagnation. So, all has to circulate, change, adapt and progress to be in the natural order of things.

As humans living in a dynamic interactive system, we have to learn to be adaptable, changeable and progressable too. If we stay put, we go into stagnation, shutting the dynamics of life out of our energy system.

Belief systems create stagnation of mind. That goes with business models too and how we have been trained to perceive what business is, and how it works, the markets, the dynamics etc.

Emotional stagnation is another, created out of fear of pain, or loss or whatever. Life is flow. It is up and it is down. Today might seem less fun, tomorrow too but then all is forgotten as a new day arise. No need to cling on to the old pain or loss because that was days ago and not in the now.

So, we are to learn to be in the day, and observe that day, complete the progression of that day, fulfill the energies of that day, circulate the energies of that day to their highest potentials so that when we go to sleep, we know that truly tomorrow will be a new day because, in our energy work before we go to sleep, we have completed all that was unfolded on that day, put what was learned into the right order of understanding, and then let the rest go. Clear the head and the heart of the energetic residuals and no-use-energy so that nothing lingers on into the night.

Removing the web of thoughts.

Removing the web of emotions.

Clearing the fields around us.

Creating new fresh energy for the next day.

And then we wake up to a new day with a new type of energy to work with. Also, even if we are to go to work where things might seem stagnated, because most workplaces are restricted energetically by contracts, definitions of functions, laws and legislations to keep order in the human world.

As a higher awareness human, we naturally follow the human laws. All of them. Including the moral and ethical standards of our society. However, we add more to it. We add energy, lifting the original function of a law to its correct potentials for growth. There are no restrictions, there is only energy and our response to energy. Stagnated or dynamic energy. Every place has its own energy and we are to learn to play with that energy, in that moment and on that day. What is unfolded for us there.

You see, the moment you learn to work with energy and observe energy, you will see that what you thought was restricted and solid, is not. If you change, so will reality. If you are in flow, so will your surroundings be. If you are trusting the five statements, they will unfold energetically and in reality, as manifest changes.

So, flow begins with you. If you are stagnated, reality will be too. Everything you are is reflected in your surroundings and what comes your way. Observe what you attract, mirroring back to you what you are. That is the first statement – reality is interactive.

Trusting yourself to be a capable human that can handle whatever comes your way, in whatever form, is another important self-perception. Trust that you are all that you need to be, when you need it in all challenges of life, and you will be it. You will learn, you will grow and you will become adaptable to changes because you know, as you grow, how skilled you are at handling all that life offers you. That is the second statement.

Since you are now aware of the energetic feedback system (the interactive principle) and that you can accommodate, change and handle whatever comes your way, you are now set for the progression path and with this, understand that life is about evolution and progression. It is about evolving all that you are to express life and existence into all the forms this system can provide. So, since life always unfolds in progression systems and our reality is one of these, then reality will always provide what you need so you can progress. That is the third statement.

When the first three statements become part of who you are, the fourth statement is naturally unfolded. Of course. It is a progression system, right?

And with that the concluding statement; I will get what I need, when I need it, in the forms I need it, all goes with the progression and higher awareness human. Of course, we get that because we want to live, progress and develop ourselves, and our consciousness, so that energy can change with us, developing our world and ourselves in the process because as you change, the energies around you do too and in that, ultimately reality will be reset back to its progression function as a supportive system created for expression of life, progression and the highest good of the many.

The Basic Creational Steps

Of course, this is just an overview and a beginning to the in depth creational work and the coaching, we can do together if you choose to work with me. But, to give you an indication of what you need to do – although it sounds fundamental and you might already be far into your business – these basic steps are good to do from time to time, as in the beginning of the month or as an overview over the year.

In terms of earning money we are to learn to go with the trust in flow. So, we don't set high numbers for our income; just what we need to cover the expenses we have in our daily lives, company and household. Everything else will surface if we need it. There is no need for lots of money on the bank account although it is a good idea to set a buffer for 1-3 months ahead of time, all the time, so that we always have time and free space to earn what we need for the next 1-3 months.

In the new approach, working is the ability to be creative and to manifest our ideas as a progressive self-expression. Therefore, an economic free space is needed for a possible tear down of what does not work or live up to our standards as we change and develop our awareness. With that we will change and adapt our business and products if we feel the need to do so, hence the 1-3 months buffer.

The idea of “must earn money” will restrict our creativity, hence the trust in the reality feedback system (watch this video), since the fear of not earning money blocks the flow of energy and the self-expression our work is meant to be in this world. We work to express our creativity – not to earn money per se. Money will come, when we are creative and work on the progression path because money is the result of the energies we are progressing and changing in the world and thus, money will come to the ones that follows some basic rules:

- Set the expenses and what you need to earn as a minimum, inclusive expenses for food. What you need extra will come when you need it. And naturally, set your way of living realistically. Our goal is not to be a “waster” and a materialistic high maintenance human.
- Then think in terms of what you want to offer in your business. What is the main product and if any, the subproducts?
- The next step is to think in terms of what the benefit of these products will be for others energetically, what they offer to a societal build up for a better world and if they benefit the good of the many.
- Or if your product does not really live up to these criteria, then how can your business be turned into a form of self-expression of your progression journey (read the HAL Approach to Life and watch the videos under the Psychology Section for inspiration, and of course do the classes if you want to go deeper) that will lead to a higher progression rate and clearing work for the good of the many. Because, if you cannot supply with a product that will benefit the good of the many, then you can supply with clearing work on the energetic level by working with the hidden realities that are part of the business world and deeply ingrained into all of the forms of businesses, we have today.

Naturally, the full scope of the HAL Business approach follows the progression work and the changes of reality this will provide to you.

The energetic approach to our world, and the ability to see beyond the obvious and learn to see all from a higher energetic angle, is part of the HAL Business concept and the ways our world works in depth and on all dimensional levels. It is not a “normal” way of doing business, but a higher awareness type of business aimed at changing our world into a future of multidimensional understanding. It is the beginning point to an opening up of humanity regarding its status as a solar system nation.

All in All

The question I asked you in the beginning has now been unfolded into suggestions and ideas of what it means to take control of your business and what it means to do it the HAL way.

I hope to see you in the HAL Basic & HAL Advanced Classes and in the Psychology Classes, Courses on Parenting & Relationships as well as in the Business Section, whenever you are ready to transform your local business environment.
